MEMPHIS APPEAL.

SUNDAY READING.

FROM THE LECTURES OF THE ANCIENT AND ACCEPTED RITE.

XXVIIIth DEGREE.

Nature solicits us, for the well-being of humanity, to reconstitute the great sympathetic and religious chains, which once bound men together. Sympathy is a mysterious instinct which unites human beings together, embraces with equal force, reason and folly, good and evil, and diminishes the merit of virtue as well as the criminality of vice. Self-interest is that which divides and dissevers them, and no society of men can long endure, whether civil, political or religious, the individuals of which are governed by it, the attraction of sympathy among them being wanting. It is, in that case, only a bank of shifting sand.

To ascribe sympathy to the instinct of imitation, is absurd. To term it magnetic is but to say that its phenomena resemble those of magnetism, and are equally incomprehensible; and yet no better term of explanation can be found. Whatever it be, it is the great instrument and agent by which the Magus works; and he who can possess himself of it and control it, becomes a king and priest among men, and works miracles.

Sympathy produced the Crusades; and then, as always, when it exists in its highest degree, it produced, in those on whom it acted, a loss of all power over the will, and that mental bondage which has been more often used for evil purposes than for good. The dancing mania in Germany, the Netherlands and Italy, in the fourteenth and fifteenth centuries; the convulsions by which multitudes were affected, in England and France, in the eighteenth und early in the nineteenth; the religious ecstacies, swoonings and spasms of later days in America; the child-pilgrimages of the middle ages, in the chief of which, in the year no more than thirty thousand boys gathered around a shepherd-boy, in France, who claimed to be an ambassador from the Lord; the people knelt to him as a Saint who performed miracles, new child-pilgrims arose, and led whole armies to Palestine—all of children or persons of all ranks, and seven large ship loads sailed from Marseilles to Palestine—all these were caused by that wondrous sympathy which binds the human race together, and proves it to be a unit, and, as it were, a single individual.

Spiritual ambition, itself destitute of religion, has often, for its own unworthy purposes, excited religious intoxication in the ignorant multitudes; and our own times have seen like mental epidemics accompanied by entire suspension of the will, prevail among not only the ignorant but the intelligent, and lead to the most alarming results.

The mighty agent, like the other powers of Satanic may be used for good as well as for evil, by the Magus as well as by the Sorcerer. The Ancient Hierophants knew its value; and it has always been the bond of union of all secret societies and occult associations. The Magus is the Sovereign Pontiff of Nature, possessed of the traditional knowledge of her secrets, and using a force which he knows, to attain power over other men. When the man of genius discovers a real law, he possesses thereby an invincible force of action and direction. He may die in the work; but what he has willed is accomplished despite his death, and often by means of his death. A great action always prepares an equal reaction; and the secret of great success is wholly contained in the fore-knowledge of reactions. To oppose a current that is beginning its circle, is to be crushed by it, like the Emperor Julian; to oppose a current that has run the whole round of its action, is to put yourself at the head of the contrary current. The Great Man is he who comes at the right time, and knows how to innovate in the right manner. The world has nearly run the round of naturalism, unfaith, egotism and cynicism, and is prepared for a great movement of enthusiasm and disinterestedness, a new birth, a renovated civilization.

No individual can effect this; but yet it must be wrought, or the race of men be annihilated. Omnipotence will not permit selfishness to reign supreme for ever. An association of men, using the great magical agent, Sympathy, and themselves inspired by profound Faith and earnest Sincerity, with an indomitable will and courage, may do it.

In religion, universal and hierarchical orthodoxy, restoration of the Temples in all their splendor, re-establishment of all ceremonies in their primitive pomp, hierarchical teaching of symbolism; mysteries, miracles and legends for the children, light for the grown men who will be careful not to give offense to the little ones in their simplicity and belief; this is the desire and need of humanity.

Philosophically, everything exists by knowledge. To know is to be. Science and its object become one in the intellectual life of him who has knowledge. To doubt is not to know. And what we do not know, does not as yet exist for us. To live intellectually is to learn.

Being is developed and amplified by knowledge. The first conquest of Science is the first result of the exact Sciences, in the sentiment of reason. The laws of nature are algebraic. Wherefore the only reasonable faith is the adherence of the student to those theorems, of the entire accuracy whereof, in itself, he is ignorant, but the applications and results whereof are sufficiently demonstrated to him.

Philosophy should be neither charlatanism, nor empiricism, nor a system; but the study of being and its realities compared, the metaphysics of nature, without mysticism, philosophic reveries or poetry; the pure mathematics of physical and moral realities. To religion should be left the liberty of its infinite aspirations; but it, in its turn, should leave to Science the rigorous conclusions of absolute experimentalism.

Man is the chief of his works. He is what he wills to be; he is the image of the God whom he creates for himself; he is the realization of his own ideal. If his ideal wants basis, the whole edifice of his immortality falls. Philosophy is not the ideal; but it will serve as a means for the ideal. The Known is for us the measure of the Unknown; the Visible enables us to appreciate the Invisible; the sensations are to the thoughts what the thoughts are to the aspirations. Science is a celestial trigonometry; one of the sides of the absolute triangle is Nature, submitted to our investigations; another is our Soul, which embraces and reflects nature; the third is the Absolute, in which our Soul expands. Atheism is no longer possible, because we no longer pretend to define God. He is, for us, the most perfect and best of intelligent beings, and the ascending hierarchy of existences sufficiently demonstrates to us that he exists.

Hate no one! Each will reap what he sows. The result of works is inevitable, and it is for the Supreme Reason to judge and chastise the bad. He who goes in a way without outlet will retrace his steps or be crushed. Advise him gently, if he will hear you; then let him go on; human liberty must run its course.

We are not judges, one of another. Life is a field of battle. Let us not cease to combat, on account of those who fall! but let us avoid marching over them; when victory comes, let the wounded of both sides become brothers by suffering, and in the presence of humanity, meet together in the ambulances of the conquerors.

Such are the consequences of the philosophical dogma of Hermes; such has been in all times the morality of the true Adepts; such is the philosophy of the Rosicrucians, inheritors of all the ancient wisdom; such is the secret doctrine of those associations that are denounced as subversive of public order, and which have been always accused of conspiracy against thrones and altars.

The symbols of the Sages become the idols of the vulgar; the allegories and myths of the wise, the fictions of history.

Mankind must ever, in this world, be divided into two classes; the few, the Seers, the Kings of Thought and Science, who lead; and the many, the blind multitude who follow. The people cannot be enlightened beyond a certain point. It is the immutable law of God.

The Seer, the Initiate, the Elect of Nature and of the Supreme Reason, is the Great Man, the Priest and King.

To him alone belongs the light, science, the Truth; because, confining his imagination to its proper secondary part, he never allows it to gain the mastery over his reason, that natural logic which results from the comparison of ideas; because his ideas grow, multiply, extend in the same proportion as his necessities, and the circle of his knowledge expands by degrees, without any intermixture of false judgment and of error.

To him alone belongs that intuitive sagacity that enables his intellect to reach and pass at a bound, and without any process of formal logic, the goals which others slowly struggle to attain and never reach; by which his conclusions are always sound and wise and his judgment unerring. This sagacity, so wonderful to the vulgar, has been the secret of the power of many who have been styled magicians. It is a portion of the Absolute Light, and infinitely progressive; and the power of the will is in exact proportion with it; and therefore the reach and scope of that power are also indefinite.

Few such men arise in any age, and long intervals elapse between them. For there is an infinite gradation in humanity, and God has given of his Light to men in infinitely various degrees, from the minute portion alloted to the rude barbarian, almost without a language and scarcely distinguishable from the apes, to the large measure bestowed on the great Kings of Thought who come as his viceroys to rule the world.

When such men fall and fall, it is because other forces sometimes govern them, than Reason and Justice alone; in other words, because they are not the Deity, who alone is Absolute Reason and Absolute Justice. Above and before all that is agreeable or apparently profitable, there is always a Truth, that is to say, a Reason, and by this Reason all human actions ought to be guided, and not by considerations of gratification or advantage, if we desire to enlarge in ourselves that intelligence which is the reason of being of immortality; and make nearer perfection that justice which is the reason of existence of law. The man who is truly a man can will that only which reasonably and justly he ought to do; wherefore he silences his lusts and fear, that he may hear Reason alone.

The beautiful final dream of the Holy Writings, of a New Jerusalem, in which the light of Truth is to shine everywhere and the world to be the temple of Justice—that Divine Utopia, the realization of which the Church has with reason postponed until another and better life, has been the rock of shipwreck of all the Ancient Heresiarchs and of many Modern Ideologists. The simultaneous emancipation and absolute equality of all men suppose the cessation of progress, and consequently of life. In the world of equals, there could be no more children or old men; and therefore there could no longer be birth or death. This is enough to prove that the New Jerusalem no more belongs to this world, than the primitive paradise; in which was to be known neither good nor evil, nor liberty, nor generation nor death; so that the cycle of our religious symbolism begins and ends in eternity.

THE COTTON TAX.

Report from Commissioner Wells in Favor of Its Repeal.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF SPECIAL COMMISSIONER OF REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, November 23, 1867.

The Hon. Hugh McCulloch, Secretary of the Treasury:

SIR: As the question of the repeal of the Internal Revenue tax now presented upon cotton is likely to be brought to the attention of Congress at an early day, I have thought it expedient to anticipate a request for a similar report as relates to this subject, and accordingly herewith submit to you the accompanying statements, in the request that the same, if approved, be transmitted to Congress.

To this statement there is appended the report of the Committee of the Commissioners of the United States to the Paris exposition, to whom was referred the consideration and examination of the samples of cotton there exhibited—a document which it has seemed desirable should be made public at the present time, rather than to allow the same to be delayed until the complete publication of the reports of the commissioners.

When the internal Revenue tax of three cents per pound on cotton imposed upon the act of July 13, 1866, the average price of "middling" cotton in New York for the preceding five months had been in excess of forty cents per pound, and for the twelve months next succeeding was in excess of twenty-five cents per pound; at which latter price the tax in question was undoubtedly less burdensome than the taxes imposed and still maintained on other forms of domestic industry.

At the same time it has been generally assumed in almost all previous reports and debates on the subject, that the tax on cotton was a temporary measure, and could only be defended on the ground of the necessities of the nation, and to be repealed at the earliest moment when its continuance seemed likely to prove a serious impediment to domestic production, or an undesirable burden on the foreign cultivator. That those contingencies are now imminent, and that the time has arrived when the policy of raising revenue from a tax upon cotton should no longer be adhered to, will, it is believed, appear evident from the following facts and statements:

The principal competitor to the United States in the production of cotton is India, and the price of India cotton has been materially advanced during the past five years through two causes—first, the improvement in machinery for its manufacture; and secondly, in consequence of an improvement in quality, in the increased facility for handling, to the use of exotic seed, and to the transfer of native seed from districts where it yielded a short staple to the best staple to those where the production has been inferior. It is to this latter agency that the recent marked improvement in the Indian cotton is, perhaps, more especial y to be attributed than to any other. But be the causes what they may, it may be affirmed that where Indian cotton formerly bore the relation of one-half to American, the value of American now rarely bears the relat on of two-thirds to three quarters, while a portion of the crop is fully equal to middling uplands for the manufacture of heavy fabrics.

Evidence exists tending to show that the present cost of two and a half cents per pound on American cotton is equal to a premium of at least fifty per cent. upon the cost of Indian cotton in India, and by some authorities it is alleged to be even greater. The tax, therefore, would still properly be imposed only when the aggregate supply of cotton was less than the demand, and the price consequently far above the normal rate. The largest consumption of cotton in Europe in any one year, was in 1860, when it amounted to 4,950,000 bales, equal to 1,834,700,000 pounds. Of this amount the United States furnished eighty-five per cent, and there can be but little doubt that the crop of cotton goods was produced in that year, even with the stimulus which the low cost of the staple then prevailing undoubtedly afforded consumption.

In the year 1866 Europe obtained a supply of 4,765,921 bales, averaging 352 pounds each, equal to 1,683,744,352 pounds, or which less than forty per cent. was from the United States. A similar quantity, although somewhat less in pounds than the supply of 1860, was too great for the demand for consumption at the prices ruling, and about 300,000 bales were added to the stock on hand in European markets; which stock, on the 1st of January, 1867, for the close of the European cotton year, was as follows: In Great Britain, 368,350 bales; on the continent, 150,000 bales; total, 741,350 bales.

If we estimate cotton at 400 pounds to the bale (as has been the custom in the United States in the returns of the crops), the comparative supply will appear as follows subject to a slight variation, from the fact that the cotton year of Europe is made up to the 1st of January, and that of the United States to the 1st of September—in bales of 400 pounds each:

CONSUMPTION OF EUROPE IN 1866.

American, about	3,911,750
Other varieties	700,000
Total	4,611,750

SUPPLY OF EUROPE IN 1866.

American, about	1,600,000
Other varieties	2,481,285
Total	4,084,285

The consumption of Europe in 1862, the year of smallest supply and of highest prices, was 750,500,000 pounds, or in bales of 400 pounds, 1,876,250. The proportion of American cotton in this year was somewhat larger than at a later date; but in 1864, it was less than eight per cent. of a total of over 2,000,000 bales.

The crop of 1866, in the United States, for the year ending sept. 1, 1867, is estimated to have been from 1,000,000 to 1,850,000 bales, out of a total delivery of 2,000,000 bales, the surplus being old cotton; but while this product was far more than could have been anticipated by the most sanguine friends of free labor, the crop in question was in reality a failure, it having fallen out short by a season more unfavorable than almost any heretofore experienced.

The season of 1867 has, however, proved most propitious, and the amount to come forward is estimates by few commercial authorities at less than 2,500,000 bales of 400 pounds each, and may even reach an aggregate of 3,000,000 bales

In considering the subject of the production of cotton in the United States, with reference to the influence of the tax, it is desirable to take a larger, rather than a small estimate of the present crop; and we assume, therefore, that the product of the year to be 2,75 ,000 bales, of 400 pounds each. If from this we deduct 300,000 bales for home consumption, and or an addition to the small domestic stock to be held over, we have 1,750,000 bales available for export, or 2,125,000 bales, estimated at 400 pounds each. If, now, other countries than the United States will increase as much cotton as in 1866 (and there is no evidence as yet of appreciable decrease) the quantity from other countries than the United States, estimated in bales of 400 pounds each, will be 2,485,000; making a total available cotton supply to Europe of 4,610,000 bales. Such a supply will be equal to that of the year 1860, when there was, undoubtedly, a surplus; but of this quantity the United States will now furnish less than forty-seven per cent instead of eighty-five per cent. in the year referred to.

In short, under the stimulus of high prices, the world has produced more cotton than it can consume at the prices of the day. Tomorrow prices may greatly extend the consumption before a new crop can be harvested. So far as the present tax that to preserve the latter at the cost of losing the former, would be a "penny wise and pound foolish" policy.

The whole amount of Internal Revenue derived from the tax on raw cotton for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1867, was $2,760,0 8 80; and although this sum comprises nearly all the revenue derive from the southern section of the country, and constitutes an amount that can ill be spared from the Treasury, yet, under all the circumstances, the Commissioner has no hesitation in recommending the immediate passage by Congress of an act repealing the entire tax upon raw cotton, and the corresponding existing duty on imported cotton, the same to take effect on its passage.

As yet but a small quantity of the new crop of cotton has been marketed, but if the repealing act be delayed to a later period, it will evidently work injustice to those producers who may be forced to send their crop forward immediately, unless the removal of the tax should be deferred to take effect at the close of the present cotton year, Sept. 1, 1868.

If a repeal of the tax, to take effect immediately, should be enacted by Congress, it is important that one contingency should be effectually provided against. Contracts, it is understood, are proposed, and possibly already made, for the purchase of cotton, tax unpaid, to be held in store until the repealing legislation of Congress has taken effect—thus insuring to the speculator, or exporting buyer, a gain equivalent to the amount of the tax. It seems desirable, therefore, that the act of repeal should be so worded as to relieve from the payment of the tax only so much cotton as, at the date named in the act, remained unsold by the producer; all cotton having passed out of the hands of the producer to pay the tax, if it has not already done so. Only in this way can the impoverished cultivator.

It may be interesting in this connection to mention that the Committee of the Commissioners of the Paris Exposition, assisted by H. E. Nourse, Esq., of Boston, have collected, and caused to be suitably arranged, a series of samples of cotton from nearly all the cotton-growing districts of the world, which collection they proffer to the Government, with the suggestion that it be placed, for preservation and reference, in one of the public offices at Washington, in which suggestion the Special Commissioner cordially concurs. I am, Sir, yours, most respectfully, DAVID A. WELLS,
Special Commissioner of the Revenue.

CONDENSED DECISIONS OF THE SUPREME COURT OF TENNESSEE, BY B. CLAY KING, ESQ.

JACKSON, SPECIAL NOVEMBER TERM, 1867.

POX vs. Armour. From Memphis Chancery.

FACTS: S. J. Armour died, intestate. Still No administrator having qualified on the estate, this b ll was filed in the Memphis Chancery court to have an administrator appointed by the Chancellor. The widow and heirs of the intestate being parties defendant to the bill, the widow filed her petition in the cause, asking that a year's allowance be set apart to her by the Chancellor, and for that purpose that commissioners be appointed.

HELD: That the provision of the statute allowing a year's support, is no part of the administration of an estate, and is not contented with the power given to the Chancellor to grant administration, but the jurisdiction is conferred exclusively upon the County Court.

The Chancellor therefore did right in dismissing the petition for want of jurisdiction.

THE MENACES OF THE FUTURE.

The people of the South will have the right, at any future time, to throw off the governments about to be imposed on them by force and fraud united, and to annihilate the Constitutions which are not their act and deed. They may, they will, for a time, submit to these Governments and these Constitutions; but they are built on the sand and cannot endure. If they were even to accept them by their votes, and make them their own shameful work, they would not thereby irrevocably cede away their liberties, and their right to govern themselves and the inferior race that is encamped, a mere horde of foreign barbarians, alien in blood, in the land which belongs to the only race that has ever proven itself competent to the task of self-government. The people of a State may extinguish themselves, and load the limbs of the State with chains, that it may be dragged in triumph in the train of the conqueror: but the Constitution of each State, guaranteeing its Sovereignty and Independence, is as immortal as the land which it protects. They cannot extinguish the State. "As well," in the words of Lord PLUNKETT, some of whose ideas we have already borrowed, "might the frantic suicide hope that the act which destroyed his miserable body should extinguish his eternal soul."

"Nine millions of people cannot be dragged at the tail of any nation on earth." This was said of Ireland. It is true of the people of the South, who are for the most part the descendants of Englishmen; and the attempt to degrade them to the level of Africans and make their former slaves their masters will in the end prove a disastrous failure. The laws of GOD and Nature are not violated with impunity: and the day will come when the South will rise to its feet once more and shake off its shackles. To-day it seems as if, in the words of RICHARD LALOR SHEIL, "Every effort for her amelioration will be idle; every remonstrance will not only be treated with disregard, but with disdain; and for the next twenty years we may as well relinquish every hope for our country."

But years are the moments of the twilight of Independence. No wrong endures forever. It has in it the seeds of decay from the beginning, and at last Right and Justice re-assert their dominion.

Men of the North, your leaders are trying a dangerous experiment. You are making the South the shame and weakness of the United States. "You may strike agitation dumb, you may make millions of mutes; but beware of that dreary silence, whose gloomy taciturnity is only significant of the determination of its fearful purpose. Beware of producing a state of things which may eventuate in those incidents of horror which every good man will pray GOD to avert, and which will be lamented by those who contribute to their occurrence, when repentance like that of those who are forever doomed shall be unavailing, and contrition shall be vain." If England had heeded these words of SHEIL, pronounced in 1844, Ireland would not to-day be the weakness of the British Empire.

Nor was this less true, that was said by SAURIN: "You may make the Union binding as a law, but you cannot make it obligatory on consistence. It will be obeyed as a law as long as England is strong; but resistance to it will be in the abstract a duty, and the exhibition of that resistance will be a mere question of prudence."

These are words of warning that come to us from the Past, and it is not seditious or treasonable to repeat them. We have heretofore said, and it is undeniable, that by establishing a despotism over these ten States, and putting them beyond the pale of the Constitution, and depriving their people of all the long-cherished rights of English freemen, the Congress of the United States has released our people from their allegiance. It does not govern them as citizens, but delegates to Satraps the power to rule them as slaves. The experiment is dangerous and will prove ruinous: and if an efficient remedy is not speedily applied, the evil will be beyond the reach of cure. The matter brooks no delay. The people of the North must compel the madmen who are engaged in the work of destruction, to stay their hands. They are bent on measuring their strength against that of the people, and already deserve the halter. Shall their energy and daring be greater than those of the people, who are striving to preserve that Constitutional liberty, into whose bosom these assassins are plunging their daggers that hack each other in the vitals of the Commonwealth? Years ago, Mr. BURKE said:

"Novelty is not the only source of zeal. Why should not a MACCABEUS and his brethren arise to assert the honour of the ancient law, and to defend the Temple of their forefathers, with as ardent a spirit, as can inspire any innovation to destroy the monuments of the piety and the glory of ancient ages? It is not a hazarded assertion, it is a great truth, that when once things are gone out of their ordinary course, it is by acts out of the ordinary course they can alone be re-established."

To temporize, and treat the disease of the country with palliatives, is to make its dissolution certain. It requires the moxa and the actual cautery. The chief conspirators are the enemies of the public liberty; and it is for the people of the North to deal with them as they deserve.

We of the South, where intellect and experience have ceased to have anything to do with the Government, and those of the white race who have so little shame as to consent to seek for office and accept it at the hands of negroes, must consult the whims and be ruled by the idiotic folly of their constituents,—we can do little to relieve the country of its calamities. In God only, and the Democratic masses of the Northern people is our hope. Yet let us not despair. To that we can always resort. And, in the words of Burke: "Even in solitude, something may be done for society. The meditations of the closet have infected Senates with subtle frenzy, and inflamed armies with the brands of the furies. The cure might come from the same source with the distemper. I would add my part to those who would animate the people to new exertions in the old cause."

UNRESERVED SALE OF REAL ESTATE

The unreserved sale of real estate, for cash, to take place to-morrow, at the salesroom of Messrs. ROYSTER, TREZEVANT & Co., on Second street, will attract the attention of cash buyers. One of the features of the sales of this firm is that they never make a pledge where the conditions are not fulfilled. They pledge themselves that the sale shall be without reserve. We know the history of their operations enough to feel assured that they will fulfill their pledges to the buyer, as well as to the seller. We have seen them fairly and fully tested, and, therefore, know what we say. It is only just to them that the public should know this fact. If, therefore, they promise that the sale will be positive and without reservation, we are willing fully to indorse their statement and to stand liable for their failure. But we know they will never come back on us. We therefore run no risk in inviting confidence, at the sale to take place at their salesroom, to-morrow, at 12 o'clock, when some choice garden farms will be offered for sale on the Poplar street road, in Fort Pickering and elsewhere. Let a fair test be made of the cash value of suburban property on this occasion. We invite the Assessors to be present and take notes on this fair and unreserved sale. See the advertisement of the property offered.

[WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS.]

NEW ORLEANS, November 30.—In the Convention to-day, a resolution was offered by a negro member expressing the sense of the Convention as opposed to a general amnesty, which was laid over.

A resolution was offered that the first and paramount duty of the Convention is to frame a Constitution, and that all minor business sould be dispensed with until this is accomplished. This was also laid over.

Wickliffe (white) offered an ordinance proposing certain changes in the organic law of the State to the effect that the Legislature shall establish free public schools throughout the State, and provide to support by taxation all children between six and eighteen years of age, who are to be admitted without distinction as to race, color or previous condition, and that there shall be no separate schools established for any race, and that a university shall be established at New Orleans, open to all students capable of matriculation, without distinction as to race, color or previous condition.

The other section provides for the maintenance and government of the schools. Referred to the Committee on Education.

A resolution of thanks to God for the success of the Radical party in this State was laid over under the rules.

A resolution to the effect that no property qualification be required for any State, parish or municipal election to any office of honor, trust or emolument, was referred.

The two last were offered by negro members.

A resolution was offered yesterday that the proceedings of the Convention be published in the Republican and paid for, was debated to-day, and tabled by a majority of four.

A resolution was offered yesterday by McMillan (white) to ratify the act of the Legislature in 1866, to issue bonds to provide means for repairing and constructing levies. It was made the special order of the day for Monday.

Gov. Flanders has issued a proclamation repudiating all connection with those who had been attempting to purchase a bill from Congress granting aid to build levies. He says: "Any and all persons claiming to act by State authority in this matter, assume powers which do not belong to them," and declares all and void the contracts entered into by E. H. Angomar, Chas. Isord, and a committee of the old Board of Levee Commissioners, whereby it was stipulated that the State pay a bonus of twenty per cent on the amount loaned, and revokes the commissions of Angomar and Isord as agents of the State.

Gen. Hancock's order is having a healthy effect.

The Picayune's Washington special says that the President has directed Grant to instruct Hancock to inquire into the cause and circumstances of all removals of civil officers which have been made and report the facts.

To-day the order of last Wednesday being that there should be no business done in the House to-day, there was a thin attendance, not more than fifty or sixty members being present.

In the town of Stitka a Masonic Lodge has been organized and a dispensation asked for from the Grand Lodge at Washington.

In the Territory all articles are held at exorbitant prices.

NEW YORK, November 30.—The Commercial's Washington special of to-day says the President's message is moderate and conciliatory in tone, but it argues that the Congressional plan of reconstruction is a failure, and that the country pronounced against it at the fall elections. Economy, retrenchment and uniform taxation are recommended as the means to effect a restoration of specie payments.

The Atlantic Cable Company announce that properly accredited agents of any newspaper or newspaper association will be allowed to transmit at half price political and general news in plain language only. No abatement will be made to newspapers on commercial or trade messages. Contracts may be entered into by which the company will agree to adhere to this rate for one year, for such papers as will pay to the company at least $3750 per month.

The conversion of 7-30 notes has been very heavy during the week, with a probable aggregate of about $20,000,000.

Lamb. The explosion occurred about 6 a.m, when she was getting up steam, preparatory to leaving. One hundred and thirty-seven persons were on board at the time, and it is thought that at least thirty men were killed. She had a large quantity of ammunition on board for the Grecian Government.

Little Things.

The preciousness of little things was never more beautifully expressed than in the following morceau by B. F. Taylor:

Little martin boxes at homes are generally the most happy and cosy.

Little villages are nearer being atoms of shattered paradise than anything we know of.

Little fortunes bring the most content, and little hopes the least disappointment.

Little words are the sweetest to hear.

Little charities fly farthest and stay longest on the wing.

Little lakes are stillest, little hearts the fullest, and little farms the best tilled.

Little books are the most read, and little songs the most loved.

When nature would make anything especially rare and beautiful she makes it little—little pearls, little diamonds and little dews.

Multum in parvo—much in little—is the great beauty of all we love best, hope for most, and remember the longest.

MAY the golden sunbeams of true and perfect happiness ever shine in glorious effulgence across your pathway, rendering life a constant scene of love and joy unclouded by a single shadow of sorrow or disc ntent.

Touch them gently, Time!
Let them glide adown thy stream
Gently—as we sometimes glide
Through a pleasant dream.

NEW ADVERTISEME'TS

THE IMPENDING CRASH!

TO THE

CITIZENS OF MEMPHIS.

THAT THE money market is stringent, and nothing to warrant the hope that the near future may bring forth a better state of things, is but too strongly evidenced by the many and large failures, not alone in Memphis, but all over the country.

In view of those stern facts we have, after two week's diligent attention, succeeded in going through our immense stock from 1st to 4th floor, and marking down the same to prices that ill repay our labor.

As an enumeration of our IMMENSE AND WELL SELECTED STOCK would occupy too much time and space, we shall confine ourselves to a mention of the leading departments in our house, hoping thereby to attract the desired notice without resorting to the pettifogging system of enumerating "catch penny" prices in connection with certain articles of but little or no value at best.

Our house being one of the oldest—if not the

and, we presume, in point of reliability and the means to sustain any losses the times may inflict, second to none in the city, we trust any announcement emanating from us may be received in the true and genuine light it is intended.

We have never carried on our business on the strength of newspaper "puffs" and placards, nor do we intend to do it now; but Dry Goods being about to resume their old standard value, we think it but due to our many kind old patrons to make them aware of the great and sudden decline in our prices.

The departments will be comprised in the following, viz:

CLOAK AND SHAWL ROOM,

An elegant assortment of
BLACK VELVET DE LYON SACQUES,
BLACK AND COLORED do. do.,
BLACK CLOTH do. do.,
CHINCHILLA do. do.

A large and well assorted stock of
WOOL SHAWLS,
HOODS, NUBIAS,
BREAKFAST CAPES, ETC., ETC.

FURS, FURS, FURS.

An extensive variety of FURS at very attractive prices.

SILK DEPARTMENT.

A newly selected stock of SILKS—some nice evening shades.

Our Line of Black Silks Defies Competition,

as regards quality and price.

DRESS GOODS DEPARTMENT,

Embraces
IRISH POPLINS in all shades and colors,
FRENCH, NORWICH, REGISTER,
LYONNAISE and VELVET POPLINS.

Also, a large stock of
MERINOS,
EMPRESS CLOTH,
BLACK AND COLORED—In endless variety,
BOMBAZINES,
WOOL PLAIDS, ETC., ETC.

Some beautiful new goods for Walking and Dressing Suits.

HOSIERY & GLOVE DEPARTMENT.

A full and beautifully selected stock of LADIES' AND MISSES' HOSIERY, ALEXANDRE'S GLOVES.

A full line of Ladies', Gents', Youths' and Misses' Underwear.

Linen and Housekeeping Department.

We have the most complete stock. Irish Linens from the best reputed manufacturers. Table Damasks—single and double. Napkins and Doylies, Towels and Towelling, Crash, etc.

The most complete stock of Blankets and Flannels we have ever had. Counterpanes and Quilts—a large stock.

CLOTH DEPARTMENT.

A magnificent stock of Black Cloths—French, Italian and German—Tweeds for Boys' Suits, Scotch and West of England Tweeds, Cloakings—extremely pretty.

Boot and Shoe Department.

A complete stock of Miles Boots and Shoes.

TO PLANTERS.

Our stock of Planters' Goods is too well known to need any remarks other than call attention to it.

It is replete with Boots, Shoes and Brogans, Hats, Clothing in endless variety and of best material.

PLAIN AND PLAID LINSEY.

Kerseys and Jeans, Osnaburgs and Stripes.

In fact everything that is needed by the Planter in the shape of Dry Goods, and at figures that will leave no dissatisfaction.

In addition to the above many inducements, we have for Sale—an young man who, for attention and politeness, and knowledge of their business, cannot be excelled, if equalled, in this city.

As we are not "closing out" nor running away from the city, we don't desire to make any statement at that will meet refutation; therefore give us a call, and thereby satisfy yourselves and satisfy us.

VALUABLE TOWN LOTS

—AT—

HAYSVILLE,

Memphis and Louisville Railroad,

(WYTHE DEPOT,)

TOGETHER with the entire HAYS TRACT of 4,000 acres, sub-divided into small Farms,

By direction of the Executors of Samuel J. Hays, deceased, we will sell, at public sale, to the highest bidder, the lots in the TOWN OF HAYSVILLE, as per plan, together with thirty farms, varying in size from 25 to 76 acres.

These Lots and Farms are situated twenty-four miles from Memphis, on the line of the Louisville Railroad. The convenient location and great fertility of these Farms eminently entitle them to the favorable notice of all who desire to engage in the growth of Cotton or Cereals. The advantages of a choice of ready access to markets above or below them, for what they sell or buy, the smaller lots in and around Haysville being only about one hour's travel from Memphis, affords those who desire it the opportunity of securing a cheap, convenient and healthy home in the country without interruption to their business in the city. WANTED—THE PATENT

AURORA OIL.

We want men every where to study their own INTEREST. The right to manufacture and sell the Patent Aurora Oil in a single county will make more money to the purchaser in three months than the largest farm in your State will make in a whole year. The Aurora Oil actually costs less than one-half the price of Coal Oil, and the illuminating power of the Aurora Oil is as much superior to the Coal Oil as the Coal Oil is to a tallow candle, and is no more explosive than a tallow candle. Any Lamp that will burn Coal Oil will burn the Aurora Oil. It does not smoke the chimney; it does not smell—it will not grease or stain the finest linen—not even white cloth. The material for its manufacture is inexhaustible. One man can make seventy-five barrels per day. No machinery required. We will pay your fare to and from the city of Memphis and bills while here, if we cannot prove all, and even more, than we have stated. A single county is a small fortune to the man of enterprise, and the right to a State is untold worth.

A NEW PLAY.—Under the Gaslight, a new sensational drama, with this title, will be produced at the New Memphis theater on Monday night.

A CALL.—If Thomas Joyce will consent to become a candidate for Alderman of the Second Ward, he will be supported by many voters.

SENTENCE DOUBLED.—Tom. Burns, one of the mackerels who recently escaped from jail, was before Mr. Commissioner Richards yesterday, and his time of imprisonment doubled.

CASH PURCHASERS will have the choice of buying beautiful lands either in the southern or eastern border of the city, in the sale of the lots advertised by Messrs. Royster, Trezevant & Co., at their salesroom, on Monday next.

284 MAIN STREET.—Mr. E. Ivinson, at the above number, has one of the choicest stocks of groceries in the city. They are entirely new, and housekeepers who want the best should call on Ivinson. "A word to the wise," etc.

DISCHARGED.—The negro, Charles Peebles, who was arrested some days since on the charge of obtaining the sum of fifty dollars from Mrs. Lear, the property of Violet Johnson, was brought before Justice Miller yesterday, and discharged for want of prosecution.

PHOTOGRAPHIC.—Byron said, "Catch the shadow ere the substance fails," and the daguerrean art being like the "art preservative of all arts," we recommend our friends to call on Mr. Day, 338 Main street, and have the same done before it is usually. His porcelain pictures are perfect gems, and are altogether unrivalled. Give him a call.

MISSISSIPPI AND TENNESSEE RAILROAD—CHANGE OF TIME—DOUBLE DAILY PASSENGER TRAIN RESUMED. On and after Sunday, December 1, 1867, until further notice, passenger trains will leave the depot daily at 10:30 a.m. and 6 p.m., making direct connections for Vicksburg, New Orleans and all points South.

NEW FURNITURE AT AUCTION.—During the coming week, at the auction rooms of W. H. Passmore & Co., No. 260 Second street, will be offered at public auction a large invoice of new furniture of every description. This will prove a good opportunity for those who desire to furnish their houses, as the stock must positively be closed out. Due notice will be given of the opening sale.

PERSONAL.—Among the visitors to our city during the past week are Gen. Patton Anderson, of Florida, and Maj. A. M. Looney, of Columbia.

Mr. J. R. McVicker has returned to the city from Knoxville, where he has been for the purpose of procuring an injunction before Judge Trigg to restrain Mr. Geo. J. Deagle from representing the Black Crook. The case is still pending.

ST. PATRICK'S CHURCH FAIR.—On Wednesday evening a splendid new saddle will be presented to the popular gentlemanly candidate for Street Commissioner. A number of tickets have been already sold at $1 each. Considerable interest is manifested in raising funds for the completion of the church. The election is to be conducted at the table of Mrs. Kelly and Mrs. Fisher. Tickets can be bought of Messrs. Hanson, Kelly and John Longus, who will assist in the election.

FIRE YESTERDAY MORNING.—A fire occurred about five o'clock yesterday morning, on Fifth street, Fort Pickering. A double tenement frame house occupied by Mr. T. P. Holland and R. H. Hester; the loss of the former will foot up about five hundred dollars. Mr. Hester did not lose quite so much. There is little doubt but the fire was the work of an incendiary. The house belonged to Charles Small, was valued at $1800, and insured in the Tennessee Mutual Insurance Company for $1500.

DIED ON THE WAY.—A poor German who has been very sick for some time on Poplar street, received an order from Mr. Commissioner Merriman yesterday for admission to the Hospital. A wagon was provided and the sick man put therein, but before he had gone three blocks he breathed his last. The driver took him to the Adams Street Station-house, when the officers ordered the remains to be taken to Coroner Cotton. That official directed the driver to go to Mr. Merriman for further orders. No inquest was held.

A NURSE.—We refer our readers to the card of Mrs. Halstead, who has been employed by the Howard Association of our city as a nurse during the late epidemic, and the strong letter of recommendation for her is attention, kindness, and experience." Being personally acquainted, and having seen her in the sick chamber, we know she is an "administering angel" to the sick, and deserves the patronage of our citizens, and we most cheerfully recommend her to those requiring the services of a nurse as in every respect qualified.

MATRIMONIAL.—The matrimonial market last week was very dull, only six certificates being returned, certifying that the following parties had been legally united: John Thompson and Miss Sarah Toof, November 22d; James Breaton and Miss Ann Ryan, November 23d; John Wallace and Maria Nolan, August 29th; Robert S. Baird and E. L. McCalla, August 22d; Henry Brown and Harriet Brack, November 20th; Charles Johnson and Anna Stram, November 20th. And thus they go!—bachelors become benedicts and double, day by day.

WIFE WHIPPING.—Mrs. Fannie Williams, a handsome dansouse, complained of her husband Dave, yesterday, before Esquire Miller, who issued a warrant for the arrest of the man "who could lay his hand upon a woman." In the way of unkindness. It seems that "the green-eyed monster" took possession of Dave, and he proceeded to take his revenge on the person of his wife. When people cannot live agreeably together they should consent to live apart. We presume the case will come up for examination to-day.

THE continuous rain storm for the past few days has prevented the sale of the balance of lots in the Meath Sub-division. There is some very desirable lots still unsold, and speculators will have a rare opportunity of making purchases that will pay finely. These lots are located near the Mississippi and Tennessee depot, and will be positively sold at auction on Tuesday next, sale commencing at 10 o'clock. On next Thursday five vacant lots on Exchange street, extended, in the rear of Col. Hulbut's, and opposite the residence of Col. Monarrat, will be sold at auction. Those who may desire to secure a lot in a location unsurpassed for health, convenient to the market, school, churches, and at the same railroad depot, should not fail to attend the sale.

ST. ANDREW'S SOCIETY.

CELEBRATION YESTERDAY.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS, ETC.

The St. Andrew's Society of Memphis held their annual festival last evening, previous to which their newly elected officers were installed at the Municipal Courtroom, viz: President, John Leslie; 1st Vice-President, A. M. Smith; 2d Vice-President, Wm. Ateigo; Treasurer, John Ainslie; Secretary, A. J. Murray; Assistant Secretary, John Heison; Physician, Allan Sterling, M. D.; Managers, Duncan Macleen, Gilbert Macleen, M. Heslep, R. H. Beith and J. R. Selkirk.

After the installation of officers, a superb gold medal was presented to the retiring President, John Ainslie, Esq., in the name of the Society, bearing the following inscription: "To John Ainslie, our first President, November 30, 1867." On the reverse was St. Andrew, supporting his cross, decorated in blue enamel. The medal was hung by a Campbel'-Tartan ribbon, fastened by a gold clasp. In presenting the medal, A. M. Smith, First Vice-President elect, made the following appropriate remarks:

John Ainslie, Esq.—Honored Sir: It is a custom which has been established from time immemorial of paying the tribute of praise and honor which are due to the worthy and deserving. This is alike just in itself and befitting on all occasions, where excellencies are seen and appreciated. In the old Roman Senate it was the favorite way of complimenting eminent services to declare publicly that this one or that "deserved well of the Republic."

On the present occasion the sons of dear old Scotia are met to induct new officers into the honorable places of this organization, and to bear testimony to their high appreciation of the services of those who now retire from office. For two years you, sir, have been the honored head of the St. Andrew's Society of this city. During this time, your course as presiding officer, has been marked with courtesy and gentlemanly kindness, and your zeal for the good of our organization has been stera and true. Be assured, sir, that your labors in this regard have not passed unnoticed, but have been duly appreciated from the first. In token whereof, the pleasing duty has been assigned to me of presenting, on behalf of the brotherhood of St. Andrew's, this testimonial of our high consideration. It is a cheerful offering to recognized worth, and in after years, when many of us shall have passed away, may you look upon it and recall these faces and these scenes around you with pleasant memories, and with kindly emotions, and take a cup of kindness, etc.

Receive it, sir, with renewed assurances of the honest friendship of true Scotchmen, which, with our heartiest good wishes, shall go with you during all your remaining days.

Mr. Ainslie, in accepting this elegant testimonial of appreciation and esteem, responded in the most felicitous manner, expressing his deep sense of the obligation, and the lasting impression it would always hold upon his memory. It should be a treasure to him, reminding him of the many friends who hailed a similar nativity to his own, and with him had so many endearments of the old homeland to unite them in close brotherhood.

The Society, after these ceremonies, adjourned with their invited guests, to the supper room, where the evening was passed in the most agreeable, social enjoyment with sentiment and song. Among the guests were Gen. Albert Pike and Capt. Harry Beck, of the APPEAL, W. C. McClure, of the Bulletin, and others.

Auld Scotia was toasted in the most glowing sentiments, and the evening was enlivened by spirited songs, radiant with patriotism and fervor. The occasion was one long to be remembered, and we regret that the late hour at which "Auld Lang Syne" gave note of separation, leaves us so little time to record the details of so elegant and festive an anniversary of the birthday of Scotland's patron saint, St. Andrew.

COMPLEXION WASH.—Messrs. J. B. Wesson & Co. have been appointed General Agents of this city for the sale of Mrs. Jackson's incomparable beautifier. The success which has attended the Queen Bess Complexion Wash and its accompanying powders, has been unparalleled, and the fame which our city has won through its beautiful ladies, will become hereafter historical. Several of our eminent dealers in cosmetics have ordered supplies, and within a few days every lady's toilet stand will be made familiar with this useful and beautifying article. The ladies of America should be grateful to Mrs. Jackson who has introduced to them an article acknowledged to be far superior to any foreign wash. The oils are extracted from the flowers which grow so profusely all over the land, and the powder, which is applied, acts as an enamel, defying the inroads of time or weather. Any lady can use the wash with safety, and its virtues as a dentifrice are not among the least of its virtues. By its use all impurities of the skin are removed, and the complexion becomes fresh and youthful. Mrs. Jackson is still in our city and stopping at the Whitemore House. Our ladies, all of whom are interested, should call on her, and test the virtues of this article.

CHANGE OF TIME.—The winter schedule of the Memphis and Louisville Railroad Line takes effect to-day, December 1st—the Morning Express leaving Memphis at 7 a.m., and Night Express at 6 p.m.; Brownsville Accommodation at 4 p.m. The morning and evening trains run through to Louisville without change, arriving at 4 a.m. and 3 p.m. next day. Returning trains will leave Louisville at 8:30 a.m. and 7 p.m., arriving at Memphis at 6 a.m. and 4 p.m. The Brownsville Accommodation arrives at Memphis at 10 a.m. This accommodates both through and local travel better than any other schedule heretofore run by this Line. Ticket offices No. 257½ Main street and at Depot head of Main, where tickets to all points East, North and West can be procured.

A POPULAR DRY GOODS HOUSE.—A. Seessel & Son, Main street, opposite Court Square, occupy a leading position amongst the dry goods houses of Memphis. They have attained this position by honesty, industry, and keeping a stock of goods suited to the wants and necessities of this community. They sell at prices which cannot be undersold by any legitimate, reputable firm in our city, and their stock is as varied and selected with as good taste and judgment as any establishment in the country. The ladies who resort to this emporium of fashion will find the very latest styles of fall and winter goods, and all the latest novelties of the season. Country people will find here a stock admirably adapted to their wants, and on the most reasonable terms. Their card appears elsewhere.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL, } MEMPHIS, November 30, 1867.

There was a scarcity of exchange to-day, and some of our banks were short. The buying rate is unchanged, although one or two parties early in the day, were anxious to buy. New Orleans exchange is in light demand, and is taken at ¼ sale discount. The current checking rates are at par on all points.

There is very little demand for gold except for shipment, and brokers retain a fair margin. The rate was the buying rate to-day. The New York market closed at 137¾.

Silver 127@128 buying.

City scrip is lower. Dealers generally are not buying. Several small lots were taken during the day, however, at 33c, where parties were anxious to sell.

County warrants have declined. Dealers buy at 65@68c, and sell at 68@70c for large warrants; small ones held at 73@75c.

Police scrip is scarce and in demand at 82c buying; selling at 85@90.

The alarm which exists in commercial circles is not alone confined to this city. Whether a sufficient cause exists therefor we are not prepared to say. The recent failures in all branches of business throughout the country, says a New York exchange, undoubtedly show that now, as always, there are firms which cannot stand the pressure of a financial crisis, but the fact that there have not been more failures under the severe stringency of the last few weeks shows that there is still considerable strength among our city merchants. The banks have not been at all able to satisfy the full requirements of their customers, and large amounts of paper have consequently been thrown upon the street, where the number of buyers was not at all proportioned to the pressure of sellers. This was a condition of things to feel severely the resources and the credit of merchants, and yet it must be conceded that the extent of resulting failures is much below what might have been expected.

It is constantly being urged against commercial credits that merchants have sustained heavy losses during the past two years in consequence of the decline in prices. This is undoubtedly true; and yet we are disposed to think that these losses are over-estimated, for there are ways in which a shrewd merchant can make profits even upon a decline in prices. Moreover, it is entirely overlooked that for three or four years previous to the process of decline, traders made immense profits upon the rise in prices, which they invested in real estate or in securities and have since held as a sort of reserve fund. This must not go for nothing in the account. Merchants may complain, but may not apply to Memphis. Many of our merchants instead of making business during the early part of the war, lost their all, and have resumed business under the worst of auspices—a declining market.

KAVANAGH & DECKER'S

BILLIARD TABLES

THE most reliable Cushion used on Billiard Tables is the

CAT-GUT CUSHION,

Manufactured by KAVANAGH & DECKER, and Patented Dec. 18, 1866. (See Scientific American, Vol. 16, No. 11).

It is the only Cushion that possesses all the qualities essential to a Perfect Cushion. It is the most elastic and most durable Cushion ever offered to the billiard-playing public, as is abundantly proven by the great demand for it at all places introduced, which is principally on account of its superior to all others, is the tightened cord of cat-gut, which overlies the narrow edge of the rubber and running the full length of the Cushion, which prevents the ball from bedding into the rubber and jumping from the table. The addition of the cat-gut cord also adds much to the elasticity of the Cushion.

The Cat-Gut Cushion has already been applied to over 100 tables, which are in constant use, it having been applied to tables of any make.

Kavanagh & Decker's Factory, at the corner of Centre and Canal streets, N. Y., is the most complete of its kind in the world. The machinery is of the most improved character, the lumber drying room the largest in the United States, the material used the best that can be procured, and the workmen thoroughly skilled.

Billiard Cloth, Balls, Cues and Trimmings, all of the best make, constantly on hand.

Kavanagh & Decker are the only agents in this country for Kay's Cue Cement, adopted by competent authorities to be the best Cement ever used.

Full size Tables cut down for $100.

Our Latest Improved

NEW SCALE PIANO-FORTE.

GROVESTEEN & CO.,

499 Broadway, N. Y.

THESE Instruments, after the most flattering testimonials from the first Pianists in the country, who, at our solicitation, have tested them in the severest manner possible, have been pronounced THE FINEST SQUARE PIANO-FORTE MADE IN THE WORLD.

It has always been our policy during the thirty-six years that we have manufactured Pianos, to the thousands of which are now in use in the United States and Europe, to give the finest instrument at the lowest cost. Our superior facilities enable us to offer them from one to three hundred dollars less than any other First Class House.

That use of these instruments are remarkable for their peculiar Sweetness and Great Brilliancy, never losing their quality when forced to their utmost capacity. The lower register retaining its pure tones quite as clearly as the middle and upper registers by uling ing with them in disagreeable confusion, the refined beauty of each register is delightful to the unpracticed and to the most cultivated ear.

They are an entirely new style of Piano, finished in the most superb manner, with four full round corners front and back, heavily carved legs and lyre—pronounced the handsomest, and each instrument is fully warranted for five years. sep5 dawly

FARM FOR SALE.

The Best Bargain Offered

S. N. ELLIOTT offers for sale this Farm of 920 Acres, at Elliott's station, on the Mississippi Central Railroad, eight miles south of Grenada. 200 more acres can be added if desired.

The land lies on both sides of the railroad, up to Elliott's Station, and affords eligible site for Mercantile and Manufacturing establishments. It has an abundance of fine timber, needed by the purchaser than enough to pay the price of the whole tract. It is all level, and susceptible of divisions to suit any purposes. Has 350 acres cleared and under good fence. Has a comfortable family residence with good out-houses, barns and stables—large, and the best gin, screw and cotton press—all new, in the same county. The improvements cost within the last three years $6000. Mr. Elliott desires to sell before the first of January next, and as a strong inducement he offers his land at ten dollars per acre, in United States Currency, for which he refused thirty dollars per acre in 1861. Time will be given, if desired, upon half the price upon fair terms. Sale must be made soon or not at all. Title of the highest grade. Refer to

THE MEMPHIS APPEAL

YE'RE NEARER GOD, MY BAIRNIE.

BY MRS. JAMES MORTON.

Ye're nearer God, my bairnie!
Than whan ye were wi' me;
And though we noo ha'e pairtit,
It's only for a wee.

An' ilka nicht that I lie doon,
Before I steek my e'e,
My heart gi'es thanks that I hae come
A day's march nearer thee.

Owre guid wert thou, my bairnie!
Owre guid to bide wi' me;
I only got ye, bairnie,
To haud ye for a wee.

An' while I held ye to my heart,
Sae dear wert thou to me,
I thocht if ye were ta'en back—
My bairnie! I wad dee!

I wearied for the sunny days,
I wearied for them sair;
I watched the dreary winter cluds
Wi' silent dread an' care.

Dark fears cam' creepin' owre me,
Whan cam' the frost an' snaw:
But bitter, bitter woe was mine,
Before they gaed awa'.

'Twas awfu' sair, my bairnie—
'Twas awfu' sair to part;
An' O, it's awfu' sair to live,
An' hae a broken heart.

But safe are ye, my bairnie!
The gentle heart o' thine
Will never, never ken the woe
That rings this heart o' mine.

The warld's noo dark, my bairnie—
It's dark to me, I ken;
For gane is a' the happiness
That I ha'e kent wi' thee.

Although I ken ye're faulded safe,
An' Watson says to me
That "I sud gladly thole whate'er
Sic happiness to thee,"

It's ill to see through blindin tears
A earth sae sair to learn;
Fain, fain wad I ha'e keepit thee,
My bonnie, bonnie bairn.

THE OLD YEAR.

"God requireth that which is past."

Speak now to me, O flying year!
But once reveal
The mighty spell of joy and fear
This night must seal.

Thy flying moments, charged with bliss
Or dulled with pain,
Make others changing types of this
Which still remain.

Now lessons with thy rapid flight
Time's priceless dower,
And life's great dial points to-night
Its hour.

What hast thou seen, O winging year,
Of good attained?
From mingled scenes of grief and cheer
What lessons gained?

Have clinging faults been left behind,
Thy days o'erblossomed and entwined
With kindness done?

Hath mine own soul e'er followed fast
Its nobler aims?
And shall the harvest purpose cast
High duty's claims?

Seal up thy scroll of flying hours,
O year, thy last!
He will judge with thy wondrous dowers
Requires the past.

[WESTERN ASSOCIATED PRESS REPORTS.]

NEW YORK, November 30.—The Tribune's special says Secretary McCulloch has finished his report, and that copies will be sent to-morrow to the principal newspapers. The document refers to the reports of the different Treasury Bureaus, drawing from them the facts and figures supporting the views advocated in his report, and elaborating upon them. McCulloch alludes to the reports from the time of Hamilton to the present, to the reports of Chase and Fessenden, supporting his views and policy of continuing the contract at the rate of four millions per month, as provided by law. He shows there were months when he could have contracted above the amount, but refrained from doing so because he didn't think it necessary or expedient. He takes strong ground against expansion, which, to use his own language, would lead to repudiation. The views of Butler, Stevens and others, were commented on, and their tendency and results. Different finance schemes are carried out, enlarged on and contrasted. He interprets the law in reference to 5 20s as binding on the country to be paid in coin, principal and interest, and believes if the policy looking to redemption in currency be adopted, the effect will be disastrous. The United States has sufficient gold in the Treasury to meet the demands on Government and keep the same in check. He gives his reasons for not selling more gold and endeavoring to bring resumption in that way. He says that speculators would to-morrow buy up all the gold he could offer, and then easily control the market, and make premiums higher than ever they have been. He believes the Tribune's policy of redemption would lead to an immediate crash in business, which he hopes to avoid. He comments at length on the Internal Revenue Commissioner's report, and gives the opinion that if the Internal Revenue Department and the Treasury had sole control of the system, the taxes would be fully collected and an end put to fraud and corruption. The report has been read at Cabinet meeting for the information and guidance of Mr. Johnson, who has some financial views to propose in the forthcoming message.
